MBL presents new generation of its 101 X-Treme loudspeaker

Berlin-based high-end manufacturer MBL Akustikgeräte has redesigned the subwoofer of its flagship 101 X-Treme loudspeaker and is introducing the new MKII generation to the German public for the first time at this year's High End trade show.

In addition to new 12-inch aluminum sandwich drivers and many other improvements, the revised version of the active subwoofer also includes a completely redesigned amplifier unit that features high efficiency and stability. The highlight of the new sub, however, is the 2-band parametric equalizer. It gives the customer of the €250,000 loudspeaker system the convenient option of integrating the loudspeaker into a wide variety of listening rooms, without having to use external hardware. This is also possible in rooms with difficult bass response, which is especially important for the overall sound experience.

Please take the time to visit the MBL booth in Atrium 4, on the 1st floor in room E108 and we guarantee you will come away with a most memorable music listening experience.
